Current Clack

“As the sword turns” has never been so appropriate. CWP has been through some adventurous times in the past and these last two months have been a roller coaster of a ride. Eleven of us did Diversity Day for the Health Administration Center and it was a rousing success. CWP attended OPUS and performed all three days (and kudos for Julie for emceeding her first show). We have been spotlighted in two Fox 31 news stories Signature Stories and the Good Morning Colorado on Dan Darue’s six spots during the show. We went to CMF and despite several roadblocks we performed all six of our shows and helped to set up portions of the fair. A grand Huzzahh from me to all of those that stuck it out! We have several people that are back with us Stormy Cone, Tori Schneider (that’s Owens now ... congratulations on her marriage to our long time reserve member Alan Owens). We have had several members leave Veronica Renteria Ashley and Paige Smith, Steven Portie, Darrell and Charles Harrod, Curt Warster, and Jen Comer. We have had four potential new members out to our practice and are looking at joining. The bottom line is that the show must go on and CWP will continue no matter what hurdles we must jump to bring the audience the best possible performance in live steel.

From The Heralds Horn

Yes I told you in this very space (for months) that we would have the web site updated...(drum roll please). It has been done and while we are continuing to add to the site we have several sections updated to current we now have a forum (so get on there and chat). Much and many thanks to our web master Kerry who stepped as web master and is now an official part of the PR team.

Wagons Wheel

We have gained access to a trailer on a loan basis to transport all of our CWP stuff. We are looking hard to get a truck that will cover us completely on moving CWP from venue to venue

Leeches Ledger

The medical team has a total of four individuals legal and ready to give first aid if needed. They are Kerry, Jordan, Julie and myself.

Ring Time

Armor production has slowed down as our season moves into full swing but we will continue to work on things, we don't always reach our projected goals for the season but we will get their even if we re focus them for next season. We could always use volunteers so remember that if you don't have a frog or sheath.

Tales Of The Anvil

The weapons have been fixed and welded and we lost one at CMF we continue to keep working on them as we need to but like Eric said we could always use volunteers to help service weapons.
